ENHANCING HIGH-QUALITY DEVELOPMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE DISCIPLINE WITHIN THE FRAMEWORK OF NEW LIBERAL ARTS

Keywords: new humanities; foreign languages; education; discipline development.

In the context of the advanced stage of higher education's high-quality development, this paper examines the foreign language discipline from six dimensions: enhancing political awareness, emphasizing connotative growth, aligning with national strategies, addressing regional demands, fostering reciprocal communication, and innovating management practices. It aims to identify new roles and directions for the foreign language discipline within the new liberal arts framework, generate novel breakthroughs and growth opportunities for its scientific advancement, and contribute to the discipline's rapid and high-quality progression.

At this advanced stage of higher education's high-quality development, the foreign language discipline is tasked with embracing the new development philosophy. It must maintain a holistic approach, fortify forward-thinking, engage in comprehensive planning, and strategic organization. The focus is on identifying the discipline's new role and pathways within the context of the new liberal arts. It seeks to discover points of integration and growth that align with the university's strategic development objectives. This involves a coordinated effort to foster the integrated advancement of discipline construction, team formation, talent development, scientific research, and internationalization efforts. By reinforcing the commitment of foreign language professionals, the project aims to support national initiatives for strengthening the country and serving local economic growth, seize emerging opportunities, and guide the faculty towards achieving novel breakthroughs and development.

(1) Elevate political awareness and harness party building's leadership in foreign language education development

Drawing on the foundation of national first-class majors and courses, provincial-level first-class courses, and the establishment of teaching teams for the "Three Advancements" demonstration courses in Heilongjiang Province, there is an aim to establish a comprehensive framework for ideological and political education within foreign language courses. This approach intends to develop a unique brand of ideological and political education in these courses, foster exemplary instances of ideological and political education through courses, teaching excellence, and demonstration classes, and thoroughly execute the essential mission of moral education across all dimensions, stages, areas, and personnel involved.

(2) Prioritize connotative development, innovate, and spearhead the swift advancement of foreign language disciplines

Accelerate the establishment of disciplines within the college, using the application for doctoral programs in primary disciplines as both the initiation and focal point. Emphasize benchmarking and execution as crucial steps, pinpoint the intersections with the university's strategic development plan, concentrate on the principal areas of discipline and major construction, and commit to a scientifically accurate path of connotative development.

Enhance disciplinary team development and continuously elevate the teaching and research capabilities of faculty. Building upon the solid foundation of existing team structures, further integration of innovative disciplinary teams is encouraged, along with nurturing team leadership, refining the disciplinary framework, and establishing research groups characterized by a strong collaborative ethos.

Leveraging regional and national strategies as a pathway for breakthroughs, and grounded in the national "maritime power" strategy, this approach involves actively conducting comprehensive research on pressing issues in defense-related areas, aiding in resolving literature challenges within these sectors, and offering vital linguistic support. Through the proactive establishment of maritime think tank platforms, academic exchange hubs, and industry-academic research collaborations, it is possible to significantly enhance the quality of talent development, steadily refine the structure of curriculum systems across different specializations, and produce high-caliber international foreign language professionals for the "maritime power" strategy.

Proactively establish four core disciplinary directions and define their distinctive characteristics; enhance the structuring of tiered teams within the discipline, categorizing specific criteria for various ages, professional titles, educational backgrounds, publications, and projects; Initiate academic research with provincial and ministerial level projects as the foundation, progressively augment the number of projects sanctioned by the National Social Science Fund, and bolster financial support for academic leaders and emerging talents; Strive to increase both the quantity and quality of publications in prestigious international academic journals.

(3) Support national strategy and develop elite foreign language professionals

Utilizing the development of foreign language discipline teams and student innovation practice platforms, the focus is on transitioning towards a demand-driven approach in foreign language education. The aim is to nurture strategic, high-level, multidisciplinary foreign language talents, thereby more effectively meeting the strategic development requirements of both the nation and society.

(4) Focus on regional needs and enhance the efficiency of social services

Based on the internationalization needs of regional economic growth, support for significant international competitions, major international exchange events, the language requirements for internationalization of institutions and organizations, and the enhancement of regional talent's proficiency in foreign languages, targeted and specialized language training services will be provided. This effort aims to broadly extend the scope of training and social services offered.

(5) Enhance bilateral communication and advance towards premier internationalization

Proactively develop cooperative ties with universities ranked in the top 100 globally for languages and literature, fostering faculty research collaborations and student exchanges. Establish inter-university exchange programs and initiate master's and doctoral collaborative projects; explore applications for International Education Master's programs; and actively organize significant domestic and international conferences to boost the academic stature of the discipline.

(6) Innovate management system, embrace reform, achieve breakthroughs, and pursue excellence

Determine the foundation for system enhancement and aim to align the college's efforts with the broader progress of the institution. Address the critical challenges hindering discipline development, advance the reform of basic academic organizations, refine job evaluation and appointment processes, encourage professional and technical positions, and offer performance-based allowances. Enhance the college's support infrastructure, transform challenges into opportunities for growth, and foster the rapid, high-quality, and superior advancement of foreign language disciplines.

The future is approaching, and foreign language educators must understand the evolving role of foreign language disciplines within the new liberal arts framework. They should precisely identify changes, adapt scientifically, embrace innovation, and fully advance the distinctive, high-quality development of foreign language disciplines.
